

Day 1:

Question 3:

Tasks:

1. Define Zero-Shot Prompting

Zero-shot prompting is a method where the AI is given only the instruction without any examples. It uses its existing knowledge to complete the task.

Example:

Prompt: Classify the sentiment of this review:

The service was slow, but the staff was friendly.

2. Define Few-Shot Prompting

Few-shot prompting is a method where the AI is given a few examples before the actual question. These examples help the AI understand what is expected.

Example:

The food was great. – > Positive

The room was dirty. – > Negative

3.Explain which would perform better for this task

Few-shot prompting would perform better because it gives the AI examples to follow.

4. Justify your answer with reasoning

The review has both a positive comment ("staff was friendly") and a negative comment ("service was slow"). The examples in few-shot prompting help the AI understand how to classify mixed reviews more accurately.

5.Give One limitation of Few-Shot Prompting

Few-shot prompting needs good examples. If the examples are not correct or relevant, the AI may give the wrong answer.
